

Ralph Boes didn't eat something
since the 1st of July 2015.
Why?

Please come along and sit down at the table!

Talk with him about the German Employment Office, and why it starves him.
Talk with him about human dignity, German basic law and whether you are allowed to excoriate capitalism by not acting under orders of the German labour market.

After proclaiming publicly that he will not follow any longer useless orders the employment office started to sanction Ralph Boes.

That means, they paid no more unemployment benefit.

Boes is philosopher, author and referent. In context of lecture tours in Germany and Switzerland he speaks about basic income. He got in trouble with the employment office because he earned not enough for his living.

After this Boes sees his work in cutting down the system of pressure and punishment.

And Boes sees a guaranteed basic income for everybody as the only possibility that allows a person to live with dignity.

As long as an inhumane punishment like sanctions through Federal / public authorities continues, Boes will refuse to follow any rules of the employment office.

He doesn't want to support the industry, which benefits from unemployment.

He demands structural reforms. This means to blame a social system that not only creates unemployment but also exploits it.

Boes is not alone, more and more people revolt against the ruling system and poverty in one of the richest countries in the world. In June 2015 Judge Jens Petermann has lodged a complaint against sanctions within labour market reform Agenda 2010.

The Federal Constitutional Court now has to pass the last judgement.

From Wednesday to Sunday 7:00 pm to 10:00 pm Ralph Boes and his support are sitting in front of the Hotel Adlon near Brandenburger Tor, Berlin.
